A question booklet and an optical mark sheet will be provided to record your answers; 'Candidates should ensure that marks are clearly made on their optical reader sheets as ambiguous or unclear marks will not be processed by the optical reader. Allowances for a candidate who made ambiguous or unclear marks on their answer sheet will not be made during the correction process.

The successful candidate's exam numbers are published on the College website within 3 weeks of the examination.

1.5 Objective Structured Clinical Examination (OSCE)

The OSCE comprises up to 18 stations in approximately 2 hours (5 minutes per station) there may be 1 or 2 pilot stations. These stations do not contribute to the final mark but are used to ensure validity of the questions before they are used in examinations. There is one rest station. The OSCE comprises the following topics: resuscitation, technical skills, anatomy, history taking, physical examination, communication skills, anaesthetic equipment, monitoring equipment, measuring equipment, anaesthetic hazards, clinical anaesthesia, airway management scenarios and management of critical incidents, interpretation of radiological images, ECGs and biochemistry/haematology results. One of the stations may use a medium fidelity simulator.

1.6 Marking Scheme OSCE

The pass mark for each OSCE station is derived using the angoff method (written stations) or borderline regression (interactive stations).

The overall cut score or pass mark of the OSCE is calculated by aggregating the pass marks for each of the separate OSCE stations.

A candidate must pass 9 OSCE stations.

Up to two additional stations may be included in an examination to pilot new questions for use in future examinations. Neither the candidates nor the examiners will know which stations are pilot stations and the results from these stations will not contribute to the candidate's final mark.

The College Council may rule that

- the hearing was fair

7. Infringements and Exclusions

During the examination candidates are not permitted to have access to any materials or information which may assist them (e.g. any kind of data retrieval device including but not limited to computers, mobile telephones, tablets etc). Failure to comply with these examination regulations will result in disqualification from the whole of that examination sitting.

The College Council may refuse to admit to an examination a candidate who has infringed any of the regulations.

The presiding examiner may refuse to proceed with the examination of a candidate whom they find guilty of behaviour which prejudices the proper conduct and management of the examination.

The circumstances of the infringement will be considered and investigated by the Examinations Committee who will submit a report to Council. If Council determines that an examination result has been secured by cheating, deception or fraud, Council will nullify the result of qualifications resulting from the examination and withdraw any Diploma, Certificate or other award so obtained. Council may decide that the candidate be reported to the Irish Medical Council (IMC) or the GMC (UK).
